

BRITISH CLASH WITH ARABS

Moves Toward Dardanelles By Russia Feared

Intensified U. S. Interest In Mediterranean Said To Be Based On Such A Possibility

APPREHENSION ON TURKISH STRAITS

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.

—Intensified United States interest in the eastern Mediterranean today was reported directed at possible Russian moves toward the Dardanelles rather than the situation in Greece.

Importance of Greece in the overall near eastern picture was emphasized, however, by Secretary of State Marshall when he announced that 25,000,000 of U. S. surplus property will be made available to Greece to care for refugees driven from their homes by Gen. Markos' guerrillas.

Marine Force Not Large

Marshall also said that he did not consider the number of U. S. Marines sent to the Mediterranean large in view of the situation there.

At the same time the State Department declared it was possible some of the Marines might be diverted to Palestine to aid in guarding the U. S. consulate there.

But U. S. apprehension over the Turkish Straits situation was indicated by the allocation of four fleet type submarines and 11 other vessels that could be used to defend the Dardanelles.

The question of the Dardanelles has been subordinated in recent months to the Greek problem but this has been due primarily to the fact that the guerrilla situation there has aroused more attention.

Protect Dardanelles

The aid to Greece program, however, as envisaged from the start, has been one of protecting the Dardanelles from Russian expansion.

A few months ago officials were complimenting themselves that the Greek-Turkish aid bill had thwarted the Russians in their move to share in the "defense" of the Straits.

That theory is now being resurveyed with the possibility not ruled out that Russia might seek to take over the Straits, with the consequent subordination of the Turkish government.

This, it was believed, would open the road to the rich oil resources of the Middle East to Russia, counteracting the long and expensive diplomatic and economic offensive waged by the western powers in the area.

Demands Subordinated

Earlier it has been anticipated that the move would come in connection with demands that Kars and Ardahan in Turkey be annexed to Russian Armenia.

These demands, as well as those for the revision of the Montreux convention to permit Russia to build defense facilities guarding the Straits have been subordinated recently. But there is nothing to indicate that they have been abandoned.

Reports of increasing concern over Turkey received support yesterday when Turkish Ambassador Huseyn Ragip Baydur spent almost an hour with Norman Armour, assistant secretary of state for political affairs.

Baydur declined to discuss the visit but indicated he might talk about use of submarines at a later date.

His visit had been preceded earlier by a call on Secretary of State Marshall by the new Soviet Ambassador Alexandri Panyushkin.

Three Of Five In New Orleans Holdup Taken

(BULLETIN)

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 10.—(INS)—The search for two of five youthful bandits who robbed a New Orleans bank of $130,000 in a daring daylight holdup centered today in Pensacola, Fla.

Three of the men were captured within six hours after the gunmen fled with their loot shortly before the bank—the mid-city branch of the Hibernal National Bank—was scheduled to open yesterday morning.

Most of the stolen money was found in the trio's possession. The two still at large were said to have taken a bus headed for Pensacola. One was reported to be a New Orleans resident.

The trio taken into custody was charged with armed robbery. They were identified as George W. Reickets, 23; his nephew, Tommie Reickets, 21; and John Hasselbach, 23.

Detective Capt. Harry Gregson said the three men admitted participating in the holdup.

Refinery Strike In Texas Ends

(BULLETIN)

Federal Mediation And Conciliation Service Announces Agreement Has Been Reached

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—(INS)—The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service announced today settlement of the 10-day-old strike at the American Oil Refinery at Texas City, Tex.

The service said that the settlement, involving several thousand workers represented by the CIO's Oil Workers Union, calls for a 12-cent hourly increase.

An agreement ending the strike was reached in Galveston, Tex., at 6 a. m. EST. today. The agreement is subject to ratification by the union membership tonight.

Settlement of the dispute came after Sen. Lodge (R) Mass., had written to President Truman asking Mr. Truman to intervene in the strike, which the senator said "profoundly" affected the New England oil shortage.

John Jones, age 55, of 1507 Hanna street, is in a serious condition from a stroke in the New Castle hospital, which he sustained about seven a. m. today. He is an assistant to the city electrician.

Senate Probers Press Search For More Speculators

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Sen. Ferguson (R) Mich., declared today that the senate food gambling probe "has only started" as he pressed his search for the unnamed nine of the 11 "insiders" named by former Gov. Harold Stassen to have made four million dollars on the market.

Ferguson, spearhead of the senate inquiry, indicated that former Postmaster General Robert Hannegan and Agriculture Secretary Anderson probably will be witnesses as the committee goes further into the question of whether Edwin W. Pauley benefited by "inside" information.

Unnamed "Insiders" Oiled By Stassen As Making Millions, Are Sought

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—Sen. Ferguson (R) Mich., declared today that the senate food gambling probe "has only started" as he pressed his search for the unnamed nine of the 11 "insiders" named by former Gov. Harold Stassen to have made four million dollars on the market.

Ferguson, spearhead of the senate inquiry, indicated that former Postmaster General Robert Hannegan and Agriculture Secretary Anderson probably will be witnesses as the committee goes further into the question of whether Edwin W. Pauley benefited by "inside" information.

Stassen, candidate for the GOP presidential nomination, set a goal for the investigators by declaring that 11 "major insiders" had 20 million dollars in the market and made four million on it.

The former Minnesota governor in his committee testimony based his assertion that the 11 must have had inside information because of their "ultrasuccessful" operations. He explained:

"Nobody could have done that good with a crystal ball."

Ready to Questioning of Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, White House Physician, Next Tuesday, the Subcommittee Centered Its Attention On Pauley's Transactions—And Whether Pauley Gained Valuable Market Knowledge While He Entertained Hannegan and Anderson at His Private Coconut Island in the Hawaiian Group.

Stassen declared, made a million dollars in postwar speculation without sustaining a single loss.

Throughout the dealings of the alleged "insiders," Stassen said, there ran a pattern of buying and selling that he said was coordinated with events in government buying—which he labeled "apparently clumsy and inept."

Stassen classed Ralph K. Davies, wartime deputy petroleum administrator, revealed by Anderson as a speculator, as a "major operator," and an "insider," along with Pauley, a former treasurer of the Democratic national committee.

But the former Minnesota governor indicated that Graham is not one of the 11, for he brushed the White House aside as a "comparatively small" operator.

Stassen Declares Russia Made Three Mistakes

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Jan. 10.—(INS)—Harold E. Stassen believes that Russia must decide within the next few years whether to use external force or fundamentally change its economic and political concepts.

The former Minnesota governor and avowed candidate for the 1948 Republican Presidential nomination made that assertion last night at the Northwest Missouri Press Association annual banquet at St. Joseph.

Stassen claimed that the United States could convert the Russians by showing them the advantages of democracy over Communism. He urged strong military and naval forces and a strong economic system as a means of maintaining Soviet friendship.

Mistakes By Russia
The GOP Presidential hopeful declared that the Kremlin made a three-fold mistake regarding the post-war action of America and other democracies. He said Russia:

1. Anticipated an economic depression with a resultant crash about 1947.
2. Believed personal rights and liberties of Americans afforded an easy road for Communist infiltration.
3. Expected the United States to strip its defenses hurriedly and thus leave a weakened Europe.

Proclamation

In these troublous times it behooves the United States of America to take measures that will insure the safety and peace of the Nation.

Realizing this, the Marine Corps is presently engaged in enlisting former Marines and others between the ages of 17 and 31 into the Marine Corps Volunteer Reserve.

Membership in the Volunteer Reserve Corps entails no drilling, no active duty, or anything which will interfere with the obligation of a member as a citizen; but by enlisting in this Reserve Corps one can be counted in the potential effectiveness of the Marine Corps and be a substantial contribution to our national security.

The idea is one that has merit. Such an organization would insure to the United States a group of men, most of them experienced, and this experience would be available to the younger men interested in defense measures.

The week of January 12 to 18 has been designated as Marine Volunteer Reserve Corps Week, and as Mayor of the City of New Castle, I hereby proclaim it to the citizens of our city. More, I call upon the citizens to lend whatever aid they can toward the end that the week's campaign for Reserve Corps Members will meet with the success it deserves.

Unusual Accident Occurs At Back Bay Station In Boston Area

BLAST OCCURS AS TRAIN SLOWS DOWN (BULLETIN)
BOSTON, Jan. 10.—(INS)—Nearly sixty passengers were injured today and an engineer was trapped in the wreckage when a New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad locomotive exploded in the Back Bay Station.

The locomotive plowed across the platform and overturned on a shower of sparks and steam. Three of the four cars on the train from Providence, R. I., due at South Station at 8:47 a. m., were derailed.

Trapped in Wreckage
Trapped in the wreckage of the overturned cab was John Moorehead, a survey engineer for the railroad. Firemen worked for an hour and a half with acetylene torches before he was freed.

Moorehead was making a survey of the roadbed. He was seated on the left side of the cab, normally occupied by Fireman Norman Hirst, of Greenville, R. I., when the accident occurred.

Hirst was unhurt and pulled from the wreckage the locomotive engineer, Daniel L. Norton, of Providence.

Five To Eight Arabs Killed In Attack In Palestine Area

REPORT MARINES TO GO TO PALESTINE (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

JERUSALEM, Jan. 10.—British troops killed at least five and perhaps eight Arabs today in wiping out a strategic snipers' post near Gaza amid continuing reports that American troops will reach Jerusalem within two weeks to guard consular property.

The incident at Gaza, which lies within that area of Palestine to be granted to the Arabs under the U. N. partition plan, was the second in the past two days in which British soldiers have engaged Arabs.

Report U. S. Marines Coming
Yesterday, forty Arabs were reported killed when British troops and Haganah defense militiamen repulsed an Arab invasion of northern Palestine from Syria.

In Jerusalem, reports persisted that United States Marines will arrive in the Holy Land within a fortnight to guard American consular property.

It was reliably reported that the Palestine government had granted permission to several foreign consulates to bring in their own troops to serve as guards.

No Definite Action
WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—(INS)—The State Department today considered sending U. S. Marines to Palestine for protection of the U. S. consulate in Jerusalem.

But, the department emphasized, no definite decision has been reached on the possible move, despite reports from London that the

Report 73 Tons Of Super-Explosive Are On High Seas

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(INS)—Seventy-three tons of the super-explosive "cyclonite" were reported on the high seas today, presumably en route to Jewish defense forces in Palestine.

Authorities reluctantly decided the contraband had slipped through their blockade after checking the disposition of 199 tons of cyclonite purchased from the Seneca Ordnance depot at Romulus, N. Y.

There still were reports that other war munitions are cached throughout the New Jersey countryside. Monmouth County Prosecutor J. Victor Carlton said in Freehold that his office has been flooded with calls asserting that there are more arms and munitions hidden in that county.

Investigate Reports
Authorities are investigating these reports.

Foundry associates of New York, the mysterious organization which acquired the 199-ton consignment from the War Assets Administration, lost at least temporarily, the bulk of the explosives in a series of raids in the past two days.

Fifty-nine tons of cyclonite were seized in a farmhouse near Asbury Park, N. J., and on trucks in the vicinity Thursday night and early Friday morning.

STASSEN DECLARES RUSSIA MADE THREE-FOLD MISTAKES

Stassen depicted the months ahead as a critical period in American history and said the brightness and hope of world future depends on American action now through the execution of the Marshall plan.

No Third War Threat

However the former Minnesota chief executive said he saw no immediate threat of a Third World War. He did, nevertheless, advocate passage of a universal military training bill, with the warning that the nation must not make the mistake of remaining weak.

Stassen, meanwhile, in a personal interview, indicated he might accept second-place on the GOP ticket in the fall campaign. When asked if he would accept the vice presidential nomination or nothing, he declared:

"Never in my public life have I taken the stand that you must play ball my way or not at all." The Presidential candidate explained, however, that his campaign has been aimed throughout at the top position in the coming Presidential race.

BRITISH TROOPS WIPE OUT ARAB SNIPERS' POST

Marines were enroute to the Holy Land to protect American interests. The London report came originally from the Arab office, and the British foreign office commented that it would not be surprised at such U. S. action.

The State Department declared that Marine guards for the consulate had been discussed with the Palestine government, and added: "It will be recalled in this connection that the consulate general in Jerusalem was recently bombed."

Lincoln C. White, department spokesman, pointed out that it was not unusual to place Marines on guard duty at consulates. He noted that it has been done in China, Rome, Paris and London.

United Nations Watching LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Jan. 10.—The United Nations is watching closely any developments in the United States and abroad which may culminate in the sending of troops into embattled Palestine.

Reports from London that U. S. Marines may land in the Holy Land in agreement with Britain to guard the American consulate in Jerusalem, aroused intense interest among delegates present at Lake Success for the "Little Assembly" and the Palestine commission.

The rampant bloodshed and violence steadily growing in intensity in the Holy Land already has raised that problem to the most urgent issue under consideration at Lake Success.

were among the injured who were rushed to City Hospital by ambulances and cars.

Locomotive Explodes

The train was slowing down for the station when the locomotive exploded, leaped from the rails, plowed along the ties, then ripped out an iron picket guard fence and bounced over the platform. It ripped 10 center stanchions of the station and overturned.

Employees on the upper level of the station said the sound of the explosion was terrific. The entire building was shaken as the center supports of the station were ripped out by the locomotive.

Ambulances were rushed to the scene soon after the crash and police cars converged on the area. A call for priests brought two clergymen hurrying to the scene from nearby churches.

The train was due at South Station at 8:47 a. m. from Providence. It was on time as it glided into Back Bay Station just before the explosion.

Among the passengers were members of the Brown University hockey team, enroute to Waterville, Me., to play the Colby College sextette. None was injured, and they headed for North Station in cabs to continue the journey to Maine.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. Oestreicher, INS Foreign Director

Now they've cropped up again—those rumors of Joseph Stalin being dead or but a hair's-breadth from the grave.

And all denials notwithstanding they reopened speculation on a long-standing subject of utmost fascination.

Just who will inherit the gold and scarlet mantle of Soviet Russia's generalissimo, all the more coveted since he transformed the uniform of supreme power from drab gray into a costume draped with stars and bangles and stiff with crimson?

The deaths of Hitler and Mussolini, one by suicide and the other by assassination, deprived the world of an answer to the intriguing question of just how a totalitarian one-man dictatorship is handed down from founder to successor.

Hitler, to be sure, had hand-picked his successors.

Would have been Scramble. But no one ever doubted that if the Germans had not started a losing war and if Hitler had passed from the scene in a normal way there would have been a scramble for power unparalleled since the days of the Bourbons.

Goering had his private army. Himmler had a bigger and probably better one.

And for all anybody knows, a revitalized Hohenzollern prince might have thrown his weight into the scales. Or some new Hitler might have sprung from the roots of the guttersnipes and thugs who constituted the brownshirt mobs.

Jealousies within the Nazi ranks and top-drawer levels were evident from the beginning.

Hitler shrewdly attempted to keep them in check by acting as "one of the boys" in beer-halls several times a year. He buttered up his bitterest rivals by taking them to the opera or attending their marriages and the christening of their children.

Stalin has Hermit-Like Existence. Except for his official public appearances, Stalin on the other hand, always has led an almost Hermit-like existence.

Of recent years, his visits even to the Kremlin have become increasingly rare.

When in Moscow, he spends most of his time at his suburban villa. But of late the capital has seen far less of him than has the health resort of Sochi on the Black Sea.

Thus it is difficult to designate any single man close enough to Stalin to be called his "heir apparent."

Andrei A. Zhdanov, who has deputized for Stalin in his absence, seems as likely as anyone.

But Foreign Minister Molotov is said to stand high in his favor, as do Nikolai Bulganin, the newly-appointed chief of the Soviet armed forces, Lazar Kaganovitch and Anastas Mikoyan.

But Stalin has been careful to see that none of these has become a national hero with a stature in any way approaching his own.

When the Kremlin's proletarian throne becomes vacant, there may be something more than a stately, dignified procession before it is occupied again.

Looking At Life

By Erich Brandeis

It is rather late to write about Christmas now when most of us have forgotten all about that beautiful but all-too-short season of love and good will.

But since this column of mine is distributed all over the country and in many foreign lands, I have to write it pretty far ahead and can't always be right on time with events.

So you will forgive me if I reprint a letter which came to me on Christmas Eve and which I want you to share with me.

"Both my husband and I are faithful readers of yours," writes the sender. "We enjoy you more than I can say, as you always add a little humor and good sense at the end of the day."

"But I smiled to myself after reading your article on the difficulty you were having in trying to choose a suitable gift for your wife. I know she must be a wonderful person by what you write and say about her."

"Do you actually know, Mr. Brandeis, how lucky you are? Why, at least you have a fair amount of money to remember her."

"With me it is a dread of Christmas this year. We have a lot to be thankful for, but still my heart is heavy."

"We are in good health, thank God, and I suppose I should console myself with this, as other years we have had sickness and plenty of it. We are married ten years and have a lovely daughter who is nine years old. We have lost two babies and another little girl two years ago, who was five."

"We were able, part of the time, to save a little, but now with the cost of rent and food so high, our savings are gone."

"What can I give my husband for Christmas?"

"Well, all I have to give him is my love and devotion, for he is a wonderful fellow and such a nice father."

"So on Christmas morning I'll put my arms around him and kiss him a very Merry Christmas. I know he'll understand."

"But what of my little girl? She's been going for two weeks now with the most glorious look or anticipation you ever did see in a child's eyes, for she still believes in Santa Claus and has asked him for a doll house and a bicycle."

"I actually have eight dollars over my little expenses to buy her gifts. She needs new shoes which will cost five dollars, so what shall I buy for those three dollars to please my little one?"

"Maybe you can tell me what to say to her on Christmas morning when her lighted face dies in deep disillusion, as I honestly don't know what to tell her."

"Maybe I should tell her today that there is no Santa. It would make it much easier on Christmas day. But somehow it seems that I can't take away her childish dreams as she'll face reality soon enough."

"I don't want any help, but I do wish you would put my problem in your column just to make people more fortunate than we are have a little more thankful for what they have."

"Please let us thank you again for your column, and we wish you and your wife a most holy, happy Christmas."

Think a little about this letter. What would you have done if you were in this woman's place?

I shall not tell you what I would have done, because I don't know. Maybe you have a suggestion—please let me know.

(Copyright, 1948, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

It's getting to the embarrassing point in this country where a public figure has reason to feel somewhat unpatriotic unless he's been named by Andrei Vishinsky as a war monger.—New York World-Telegram.

From Me To You

By MESEALD

A LITTLE PRAYER

And now good night, this day is DONE;
And oh, dear Lord, may I have ONE more glorious day in which to look more diligently Thy WAY?
As my tired head upon my pillow now I LAY
I thank Thee, Lord, for this sweet day
And pray tomorrow, when I rise there'll be no care nor sorrow in my eyes.

And I will try once more Thy worthy child to be;
And oh, dear God, be patient and keep loving me.

As I look back into this morning that you gave,
I see the things I MIGHT HAVE DONE had I been brave.
The helpful word I left UNSAID, the impatient word I spoke instead.
And so, dear God, I promise THEE
That on tomorrow I will BE
One more a grateful, loving child to Thee;
And, please, dear God, be patient and keep loving me.

Vandenberg Gives Congress Example

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—As a send-off for the European recovery program in its journey through Congress, Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg gave Congress another example of the meaning of cooperation on a bi-partisan foreign policy. The Republican leadership in the House could not do better than to study this latest object lesson and profit from it.

When President Truman at the end of the special session last year sent the recovery proposal to Congress, he included in it a recommendation for a total of 17,000,000,000 to be authorized for a four-year program. That immediately became the target for those who wanted to block the whole idea of a recovery plan.

Handy Target

It was a handy target the president had set up for them. They could talk about the impossibility under the constitution of one Congress committing another Congress to spend large sums of money. They could talk about offering Europe a four-year guarantee so that Europeans would sit back and wait for the gravy train to arrive on annual schedule.

That was, in fact, the way some of the House Republican leaders were beginning to talk. Those leaders, with the honorable exception of Chairman Charles A. Eaton of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, whose influence in party councils is not conspicuous, are still isolationist in their outlook. They could not resist the temptation to make mischievous politics out of that big, round sum of seventeen billion dollars.

Generous Mistake
Vandenberg felt strongly that it was a generous mistake to provide specifically for four years of appropriations in the ERP bill. He recognized at once that this would be the biggest hurdle to adoption of the program.

But instead of sniping he took a constructive course. He wrote to Secretary of State Marshall suggesting that the four-year authorization be cut out of the bill. The reply from the administration was equally constructive. Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett said that President Truman had agreed with the suggestion.

In the hearings and in the debate it will be made plain that it is a continuing program, which successive Congresses will be expected to carry on. But it also will be made plain that the participating European nations will sign businesslike contracts calling for specific production levels at specific dates.

Aware Of Need
With the responsibility of shepherding ERP through the Senate, Vandenberg is acutely aware of the need for speed. He hopes that the hearings before his Foreign Relations Committee can be full and explicit on every phase of the program, yet limited to a few weeks. He said hopefully that the hearings before his committee might be wound up in three weeks. But this drew murmurs of protest from some committee members.

A second stumbling block and time-killer foreseen by Vandenberg is on the issue of how the program shall be administered. In the House, conscientious, hard working Rep. Christian Herter is for a separate government corporation with broad independent powers to supervise the aid program. But this opens the way for duplication and conflict. Obviously, the ERP will be the base of the nation's foreign policy. Decisions made by the ERP administrator will cast a long shadow around the world.

"Second Secretaries"

This administrator might become a sort of second secretary of state, competing with the one duly appointed by the president and confirmed by the Senate. Likewise, his subordinates in each European country would be competing with the U. S. Ambassadors in those countries, as Vandenberg has said, he doesn't want a second secretary of state.

But again, his thinking was constructive. He was called on Brookings Institution in Washington to make a thorough survey of the whole problem. Brookings economists and foreign affairs experts were already studying the whole question of overlapping authority, particularly during World War II. On the basis of these studies they will make recommendations to Vandenberg.

High Praise

From Sen. Carl Hatch, on the Democratic side of the aisle, comes high praise for Vandenberg and with it a suggestion for extending the kind of cooperation that the senator from Michigan typifies. Hatch proposes that both the Republican and Democratic policy committees sit with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee through the hearings on the recovery program. In this way leaders of both parties would have the facts and they could then unite in pushing the recovery program through the Senate.

Congressmen of both political parties who understand the disaster that would follow failure of a recovery program will have to work seriously and earnestly for cooperation. Otherwise, political partisanship will cut in on the very core of the bi-partisan program.

THE CHALLENGE
We throw the easy games aside.
To those that call for skill we turn.
And what to many seems denied
We spend our strength and time to earn.

If obstacles were never met,
If simple were our every task,
If all we wanted we could get,
For difficulty soon we'd ask.

Within the difficulties lie
The challenge every man must meet.
Which easy tasks cannot supply.
And that's what makes achievement sweet.

Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

(Copyright 1947, By The Baltimore Sun)

Two Years Ago—And Now

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—The public memory is notoriously short but it ought not to require too much effort for the averagely informed citizen to recall the Fulton (Mo.) speech made on March 6, 1946, by Mr. Winston Churchill. In the interests of world peace, for mutual protection, to strengthen a closer peacetime partnership between the English-speaking nations, the joint use of British and American naval and airbases, continued co-operative consultation of the joint chiefs of staff.

FOR this entirely sensible and unsensational proposal Mr. Churchill found himself denounced all over the country. President Truman, who had introduced him, hurriedly disassociated himself from the speech, declaring he had no idea what was in it. Senators Pepper, Kilgore and Taylor regarded it as "shocking." Senator George asserted that to "dovetail" the armed forces of the two nations would weaken the United Nations. Senator Ball, of Minnesota, declared such an alliance would be interpreted by Russia as "unfriendly." By others Mr. Churchill was called an "incurable imperialist," and, of course, a "warmonger."

PARTICULARLY was he flayed by the "liberal" columnists and commentators who at that time all held that the way to gain Russian co-operation and atomic energy control and everything else was through an appeal to reason and by being patient, cordial, sympathetic and understanding—an idea that seems abandoned now by nearly everyone except Mr. Henry Wallace and his friends. In his own country, the aged George Bernard Shaw vehemently and ridiculously asserted that the "Churchill plan" would mean immediate "war with Russia."

IN VIEW of all this, it is interesting to note that to a considerable degree the peacetime partnership between this country and his own, advocated by Mr. Churchill, already has come about, and the rest of it, including the dovetailing of our armed forces and the "co-operative consultation of the joint chiefs of staff," is being passionately urged by some of the very columnists and commentators who were so horrified at the Churchill suggestion two years ago. These now scream for a full working partnership as vital to us and to the world. As a minimum, they insist, the organization of a combined Anglo-American political and economic staff is plainly essential. Nor is it denied that political and economic co-operation is silly if it does not include military understanding and co-operation.

THE Soviet representatives, Mr. Molotov and Mr. Gromyko, long ago made those arguments about weakening the United Nations, and "understanding the moods" of the Russians seem extremely silly. And no one now suggests that it would be calamitous for the Russians to "improve" anything so do as unfriendly, because they not only consistently put the worst possible interpretation on everything we do or say but have called us every unfriendly name they can think of. And still are. Mr. Churchill is not the kind of man to say "I told you so," but he has every right to, and it does seem that the once critical gentlemen who now have adopted his view might feel a little apologetic and more than a little foolish.

THE following is a quotation—"The 'special arrangement' for peacetime military co-operation which Mr. Churchill proposes for the English-speaking nations is simple, logical and practical. Inevitable allies in war, we inevitably must be allies in peace—and are. Our great common desire for peace makes this sort of 'special arrangement' wholly natural and intelligent. It is the way to make our combined weight within the United Nations more potent. It will make it more difficult to bluff us or bully us. And it has several other obvious advantages, such as increased effectiveness in national defense at a decreased cost. It would strengthen rather than weaken the United Nations, and it involves no hostility to Russia, with whom all the English-speaking nations want to be friends. However, it would reduce the ability of Russia to make a monkey of us and would make the world more secure against war."

THOSE words appeared in this column on March 7, 1946, the day after the Churchill speech. They seem to apply even more forcefully to the situation as it exists today than they did to the situation nearly two years ago. The kind of opposition the Churchill proposal had then does not exist now. The unfavorable arguments then made would be absurd now. Actually, some who made them in 1946 have so changed their minds that they now want to go farther in the partnership than was then proposed. It ought to be too clear to argue that if we had taken Mr. Churchill's advice two years ago there not only would have been no war such as Mr. Shaw forecast but the world would be in a much better position than now—and the cause of peace much further advanced. The "special arrangement" Mr. Churchill suggested was needed then. It is much more needed now. And still we back and fill, fool and falter about a step already partly forced upon us by events and which not to take wholeheartedly and without delay is indefensible.

They Say

WASHINGTON — Sen. Taft (R) Ohio, accusing President Truman of courting left wing friends of Henry Wallace: "Mr. Truman has raised all the ghosts of the old New Deal with new trappings that Tugwell and Harry Hopkins never thought of."

COPENHAGEN — Princess Margrethe, mother of Princess Anne of Bourbon-Parma, explaining that both King Michael and Anne want an early marriage: "They have nothing to wait for. They are two people in love."

WASHINGTON — Sen. George (D) Ga., declaring his uneasiness over the issue of administration of the Marshall plan: "I was disappointed that there is evidently a state of confusion."

WASHINGTON — Rep. Cole (R) Mo., supporting a bill to ban Communist party participation in any U. S. election: "I think everyone is in agreement that the policies of the Communist party are certainly not a guarantee of Republican government."

Previous demonstration of his decision to swing leftward appeared in his veto of the Taft-Hartley law—a document which in practically every particular parroted the CIO criticisms of the act. In twice vetoing tax reduction, Mr. Truman, paradoxical though it might seem, also followed the CIO line, which demands continued high taxes, even on the pay envelope.

State Convention Plans Formulated By Local Gideons

Much Work Accomplished During Past Month In Bible Placement By New Castle Camp

New Castle Camp of the Gideons discussed further Friday evening, their plans to entertain several hundred Gideons from the state of Pennsylvania in New Castle on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 23, 24 and 25.

The group had planned to have at the meeting which was held in the home of Robert Chappell, 836 Franklin avenue, the state president of the Gideons, J. D. Williams of Erie, Pa., but due to the death of his father in Johnstown, was unable to be present. Mr. Williams will meet with the executive committee of the local organization Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

At the meeting Friday evening, directed by Mr. Chappell, president of the New Castle Camp, Louis A. Mooney, Bible secretary, brought a short talk from the Bible with a reading presented by Miss Ruth Bender of the Gideon auxiliary. During the business session, plans were discussed for the entertaining of the delegates and the presentation of the Gideon message in local pulpits. The Gideons will speak in almost every church in the city.

A banquet at which 500 will be in attendance will be held in The Cathedral on Saturday evening, April 24. During the convention, a number of national figures in Gideon work will be present in the city.

A report of the local Gideon work done during the past month, shows that Bibles were placed in schools of Jackson Center, Ellport, Stoneboro, Enon Valley and New Galilee with plans for similar work to be done in more schools in Lawrence county.

Concluding Friday night's meeting, Mrs. William Bender and Miss Ruth Bender served refreshments, they with William Bender being hosts. Meeting simultaneously Friday evening were the Gideon Auxiliary members directed by Mrs. Rose Bender, local president.

Mr. and Mrs. Clare Lutz, 928 East Washington street will entertain the members on Friday evening, February 13.

YEAST

Mom is so busy these days fighting inflation and high prices that she sometimes forgets some of the short cuts.

There are a lot of vitamins and other things which are provided in our food. A little goes a long way but we need that little.

Yeast is a good source of some of these things.

It does not have to be eaten as is.

It may be disguised in various ways. It may be put in soup or salads or sandwich filler.

DATE FOR SCHOOL FROM

Question: Our school gives two or three dances a year which I must attend. I have no regular escort and so must ask a boy to take me. Do you think these boys will think I am "running after" them?

Answer: Not if you ask a boy you know fairly well and one who has taken you out. Buy two tickets and pay for them yourself. You might find it embarrassing to ask a new acquaintance to take you to the dances. You would not know whether he accepted for the sake of politeness or because he enjoys your company. Since most girls of your age are "unattached" they must ask boys to take them to school dances; and unless the boys are suffering from an over-dose of conceit, they will understand.

Question: I say this is correct: "Mary had drunk her milk. My sister says "drank" is correct in this sense. Which is correct?

Answer: "Had drunk" is correct. Question: What do the abbreviations "A.M." and "P.M." mean indicating morning and afternoon?

Answer: Ante meridiem—before the sun reaches the meridian. Post-meridiem—after the sun has reached the meridian.

Question: Is it necessary to wear black when attending the funeral of a friend or is this necessary for only those members of the family at the head of the procession?

Answer: Friends who attend the funeral need not dress in mourning. They should, however, avoid bright colors which look out of place in a funeral procession.

THE WORLD AND THE MUD PUZZLES

velopes of its members. There is a general belief in Washington that he will make tax proposals of his own at the January meeting of Congress, urging smaller levies on the "little fellows" and so-called rich levies on larger incomes—always presumed to be popular with the masses.

May Out-Roosevelt Roosevelt There are expectations among those in the know, that Mr. Truman will undertake to out-Roosevelt Roosevelt by going all out for socialized medicine, vast government housing projects, enlarged security benefits, windmill jousting against "monopolies," bigger and better subsidies and a general line of appeals to class division.

Few, if any, of these policies represent the real Harry Truman by birth, environment and training a Middle West conservative. But two powerful factors explain his adoption of the left-winger pose. One is the possibility of Henry Wallace as a third party candidate of the radicals, including the leaders of organized labor, the lame ducks and the jobless New Dealers, and that peculiar element which sympathizes with Communist Russia—an element of some dimensions among writers, artists, musicians, preachers and scholastic professors. While Mr. Truman rightly judges that Mr. Wallace would not stand a ghost of a show for election, his candidacy in all probability would divert enough radical votes to defeat the Democratic nominee.

Another reason for the President's redonning the Rooseveltian mantle is his apparent resignation to the fact that his policies have pretty well alienated the conservative elements of the country. His one hope is in the crusading and "emergency" policies of the New Deal. Self-interest is presumed to hold the allegiance of the big city bosses—Pendergast, Hague, Kelly, Flynn and all the other "practical" class of politicians, to whom jobs matter, instead of principles. Tradition is presumed to keep the Solid South in line, regardless of the disgust of old-line Democrats with New Dealism.

How this strategy will work out is only a matter of conjecture, with one man's guess as good as another's. Its obvious character, however, should warn the opposition of the lines of battle.

An area of great mechanical invention was started by the invention of the shuttle by John Kay in 1754.

Death Toll In Mercer County Fire Up To Five

SHARON, Pa., Jan. 10.—(INS)—Five persons died Friday afternoon in a fire that destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Gill at "Big Eats Camp" north of Sharpsville. Scott Gill, 36; his wife Emily, 34; daughters Gloria, aged 5, and Darleen, aged 2, and Gill's brother Carl, 28, died following an explosion and fire that leveled their frame cottage on the Shenango river.

Police believe the five victims were caught in the kitchen when kerosene was thrown on the stove and exploded.

Three other children, Robert, 8; Edward, 12, and Glenn, 10, sons of Gill who were playing in the yard at the time, were treated at a Sharon hospital for minor injuries sustained in a rescue attempt.

What makes a person want to be a missionary? Sunday evening, January 11, at 7:45 o'clock in the Second U. P. church seven young men from Westminster college and Rev. Robert C. Kelly, of the Bible department, will present a panel discussion wherein motives for the mission venture are investigated. Five of the seven members of the panel have seen missions first hand as G. I.'s. They saw duty in Japan, Korea, the Marshall Islands, the Philippines, New Guinea and Latin America. Their experiences have convinced them that they should go back as missionaries.

Questions of people who are opposed to missions are also asked in discussion that is not all one-sided. Careful consideration is given to motive for and against missions.

Twenty-Five Churches Will Send Members Through City Sunday To Assist In Survey

Five hundred callers will blanket the city of New Castle Sunday afternoon between the hours of two and six o'clock in an effort to secure information which will be of inestimable value to the churches of New Castle in future religious work and church expansion work.

The religious census which is backed by the New Castle Ministerial Association, will bring to New Castle, Dr. Frederick A. Shippey, of Evanston, Illinois, director of research of the Methodist church and a staff member of the Home Missions Council of North America, who will meet with the leaders of the survey on Saturday evening, to map out final plans. Dr. Shippey's office will analyze the results of the census and assist in making further survey analysis.

The Greater New Castle Association has had numerous requests from industrial concerns seeking to locate in New Castle, for information about the churches. The results of the census will help answer those questions, as well as to bring many people in touch with the religious life of the community.

Duff Calls For Fuel Conserving In Pennsylvania

Governor Requests 15 Per Cent Reduction, In Use
Of All Petroleum
Products

HARRISBURG, Jan. 10.—(INS)—Gov. James H. Duff, has asked Pennsylvanians for a voluntary 15 per cent reduction in consumption of all petroleum products, including gasoline, to help meet the fuel oil shortage in the Commonwealth.

He warned that the measure was necessary to "keep industries in oil-short areas operating" as well as heat homes.

"There will be some big industrial plants shut down and employment will go down" if Pennsylvanians fail to cooperate in the voluntary conservation program.

Must Effect Cut
"Therefore I must earnestly request that all citizens using fuel oil and gasoline cut their own use of these fuels by at least 15 per cent," Duff said.

The governor traced part of the shortage to an increase in the use of all petroleum products by 37 million automobile owners and 800,000 new homes built last year, many of which used oil.

He warned that "there will continue to be a shortage of fuel oil supplies all during this winter," and that unless the public cooperated relief could not be provided for oil-short sections of the state.

Duff acted on the recommendation of his fuel oil conservation committee.

WILLIAM GUSTAFSON

A man who has a great deal to do with the task of seeing some 20,000-odd copies of The News onto the streets and into our homes six days a week is William Gustafson, press foreman at the plant since 1919.

"Billy," as he is affectionately known to the other employees, is boss of the giant rotary press which grinds out the daily editions at the rate of 20,000 copies per hour. His other duty is overseer of the stereotype room where the pages are cast in lead, ingots are molded for machines in the shop and wire service photographs and advertisements are duplicated from matrix to metal.

Mr. Gustafson has a genuine love of the printing trade, a career he began in Jamestown, N. Y., at the age of 17. It was at that age that he began as an apprentice with the Journal of that city, and took his first foreman job with the now extinct Morning Post of the same community.

His parents immigrated to the United States from Stockholm, Sweden, in 1881 when "Billy" was less than a year old. His father was a finisher in a bedstead works and settled in Jamestown.

Came Here in 1906
Mr. Gustafson moved to New Castle in 1906 and took a job as press foreman with the old Herald. He moved to The News in 1919 and has been on the job ever since.

He returned to Jamestown in 1906 to marry the former Mary Anderson. The Gustafsons have two children, Russell, with Westinghouse Air Brake, Pittsburgh, and Raymond, an employee of the Ohio Public Service in Beloit, O.

"I have noted a vast change in printing over the years," said the veteran pressman. "When I started in the trade most of the type was hand-set and we used flat-bed presses. I had the honor of working with the first rotary press which came out of the first Chicago World's Fair—a great improvement in newspaper publication, and practically the same principle which is used to the present day."

Mr. Gustafson has been a member of St. John's Lutheran church for the past 40 years, and is still a volunteer fireman with Hose Company No. 1, a post he has held for 39 years.

He is a member of the Lodge of the Craft, Consistory, Shriner, and the New Castle chapter. He is also a long standing member of the Maccabees organization of the city.

750 MILLION DOLLARS IS A LOT OF MONEY

It's three quarters of a billion dollars, it's over five dollars each for every man, woman and child in the United States. It would buy a $2000 automobile for 375,000 people, it would buy 75,000 citizens each a $10,000 home.

But the 750 million dollars we mean is for neither of these purposes. It represents the motor taxes paid in 1947 by the motor trucks of the United States.

If used for highway purposes at $100,000 per mile it would build a highway from New York to Los Angeles and another one from San Francisco to Philadelphia. And there would still be enough money to build a highway from New Castle to St. Petersburg, Florida.

Does this answer your question, "do motor trucks pay their share of highway expenses?"

From 15-Year Sentence

HAVANA, Jan. 10.—(INS)—The defense attorney for Patricia (Santana) Schmidt, the Toledo, O., dancer, who was sentenced to 15 years in jail for the slaying of her lover, announced today that he will appeal the verdict to the Cuban Supreme Court.

Attorney Rene Castellanos said that an appeal may be made within five days after the last "interested party" in the trial is notified of the sentence.

He said that Patricia had not yet been officially notified of her sentence.

Plan For Benefit
Reports circulating in Havana said that Jack Irving, president of the Chicago chapter of the American Guild of Variety Artists is planning a benefit performance to finance Patricia's appeal.

The 22-year-old night-club entertainer was found guilty by a three-man Havana tribunal of fatally shooting John Lester Mee, Chicago lawyer during a lovers' quarrel last April aboard Mee's yacht in Havana harbor.

Reserve Officers Lay Dance Plans

Captain John Mortimer Named Chairman For Dance To Be Held In February

Plans were made at the regular monthly meeting of the Reserve Officers Association in The Castleton for a dance to be held at the County Club during National Defense Week in February. The exact date has not been set.

Captain John Mortimer was named chairman for the dance and his committee consists of Captains Reid Shiner, Richard Gilmore, Vincent Wadlinger and Walter Conover. The dance will be informal and will be open to all former Army, Navy and Marine officers and friends.

named to investigate the possibility of renting a room in the downtown area that could be used as a club-room.

Major Waldron Curley president of the local chapter is taking a group to Youngstown to attend the next regular meeting of that city's chapter of the R.O.A.

Colonel W. Fulton Jackson brought to the attention of the chapter the fact that Victory Medals are now available to all veterans who served during World War II. Medals may be obtained by presenting your discharge certificate at the office of A. Lewis Conn in the Court House.

The next meeting of the chapter will be a special meeting to be held in The Castleton Thursday, January 22. This will be a short meeting for the purpose of distributing dance tickets and all reserve officers are urged to attend.

Duff Endorses March Of Dimes

HARRISBURG, Jan. 10.—(INS)—Gov. James H. Duff today endorsed the 1948 "March of Dimes" January 15 to 31 to fight infantile paralysis and urged generous support of Pennsylvanians.

"All contributions, no matter how large or how small, will help in the effective unrelenting battle which the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is waging against this crippling and deadly disease," the governor said.

Veteran Proclaims Love For Holdup Woman In Court

Times Square Woman Bandit Is Identified As Madelyn Smith Of Youngstown

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(INS)—A handsome veteran stood up in felony court Friday and proclaimed that he loved and would protect the woman who held up two Times Square hotels Wednesday.

He was Anthony D'Andrea, 30, of Brooklyn, who brushed aside the anonymity in which the woman had sought to place him. He swept her into his arms and kissed her as she sobbed.

Gives Real Name
The woman identified herself as Madelyn Ruth Smith, 29, of 328 W. Raven Ave., Youngstown, O. Previously she had given her name as Evans in an effort to conceal her family.

She was ordered sent to Bellevue hospital for observation after her attorney said she had suffered a "violent fall" last Sunday, spent two days in bed but had refused medical treatment.

Early Wednesday, after a drinking spree, the woman allegedly held up the two hotels with a compact concealed under her coat to simulate a gun. She got $41, but several hours after her arrest she claimed she had "no recollection" of the holdups.

Sees Full Scale War In Palestine

PRINCETON, N. J., Jan. 10.—(INS)—Bayard Dodge, head of American university of Beirut in Syria, believes a "full scale war" will break out in the Holy Land as

"the Jews attempt large scale immigration to Palestine". Dodge told a Princeton university audience that "if the Jews and the Arabs are left to settle it between themselves, that also will mean war and the Jews in the interior will be wiped out."

"If the United Nations send U. S. and Russian troops into Palestine," Dodge added, "the Arabs will cut off their oil concessions to the U. S. and the U. S. will cut off American aid in the area."

"That will mean poverty, retrogression and a serious situation." A new type of periscope camera can snap close-up beachhead pictures at the rate of more than one a second. A sheet of film from it can be processed in daylight in less than a minute.

Punchless 'Canes Tripped, 41 To 31

Second Half Collapse Enables Beaver Falls To Nail Easy Victory

Locals Score But 8 Points Second Half Due To Impregnable Defense, Own Listless Play; Attack Sours After Battling To Halftime Tie.

New Castle High was pondering a question today that may require a Philadelphia lawyer to get the answer—What happened to the New Castle High Basketball team last night? What had been billed as a battle to the wire in a Section Three contest with Beaver Falls, turned out to be an exhibition of listlessness, the Tigers winning 41 to 31 as a packed gym sat in on the happenings.

The Douglass-coached machine had beaten Ambridge last Tuesday at Ambridge and things looked rosy for the taking of the Falls-men. As it turned out New Castle was easy for Beaver Falls. The 'Canes made a game of it the first half and then folded up in the second half like a 1.98 accordion.

Shenango Hi Jolts Wampum

Wildcats Overcome Big Lead To Hand Champions First Loop Set-back, 43-39

Nervous and off their game for the first half of the battle, Shenango high's Wildcats came roaring back last night at their home court to upset favored Wampum, 43-39 in a Section 23 thriller.

Making only four field goals in the first two periods and their foul shooting off, the 'Cats trailed at the intermission, 23-11 and at one time, 15-1. In the third period they began to roll, however, and with two minutes left, wrested the lead for the first time, pouring in seven straight points to triumph.

The entire squad played inspired ball in handing the Indians their first loop setback. Johns and Bayuk were high point men for the winners, while King stood out for the Redskins.

New Wilmington Hi Surprises Bessemer

Eke Out 36 To 35 Win In Thriller At New Wilmington Friday Night In Section 23

In a game that was closer than the proverbial cat whiskers, the New Wilmington high Greyhounds pulled up, alongside of Shenango for the leadership in Section 23 by edging the surprised Bessemer high Cementers in a wild and woolly ball game, 36 to 35, that had the fans and players exhausted with spent energy at the finish.

The game was played at New Wilmington with a packed house. Bessemer led the first period 8 to 7, but at the half the Eagleson coached lads had drawn ahead 17 to 17, and stayed there at the end of the third period 27 to 26. Bessemer couldn't catch up in the final heat.

Hartwell-Anderson Stars Starting for New Wilmington was Hartwell with ten points, and for Bessemer Anderson with 14 was the shining light. There was never three points difference in the teams at any time in the game. It was the second Section 23 win for the Greyhounds and the first defeat for Bessemer.

New Wilmington also won the preliminary game 33 to 32, to start out a very close evening all the way around.

Powder-Puff Hitters

Maxim Spoils Olle's Debut In Dull Fight

By LAWTON CARVER (International News Service Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Olle Tandberg's American heavyweight debut left disgruntled Madison Square Garden customers wondering today how a man so utterly unskilled could have beaten even Joe Baksi at Stockholm last summer.

Tandberg rode to these shores on the wave of publicity built up by that Baksi victory and was thoroughly deflated last night by Joey Maxim in a strange spectacle of powder-puff hitting.

There wasn't a knockdown in the 10 rounds and not a bruise or a scratch on either man at the end of the bout which went to Maxim by an official vote of two to one.

Referee Eddie Joseph and Judge Lecon voted identically—seven rounds for Maxim and three for Tandberg. Judge Charlie Shortell, who must have been looking the other way throughout the proceedings, gave the fine, old-fashioned fan dance to Tandberg by five rounds to four with one even.

No Punch Neither fighter has the punch of a well-fed middleweight, and Tandberg really looked like the famed Swede with two left feet through a mid-sized heavyweight, danced around him and aggravated him daffy.

Maxim couldn't do any damage beyond that generated by an over-eager gnat, and the slow and the slow and clumsy Swede just kept on swatting futilely and hopelessly, wondering no doubt what manner of nonsense he was involved in.

He finally got the idea that whatever it was, he couldn't do anything about it. The best you could give him was a vote for trying.

He had everything going to him, and the common wall from abroad in these international presentations to the effect that we job foreigners upon their arrival in the country by rushing them into mismatches or steel decisions can't be started this time.

Went All The Way They went all the way in the buildup for Tandberg to the point of making a mismatch in his behalf. They gave the Swede, who is a boxer without a punch, another boxer without a punch for his debut and made his physical edge so great that he had no excuse for not hurdling it.

Tandberg weighed 208 pounds against 179 for the little Cleveland Italian for a clean edge of 29 pounds, plus all the best of it in height and reach and he still couldn't do enough to avoid stirring up a mess of boos.

At the age of 29 he isn't going to learn how to throw a right hand punch without first waving it with an advance warning, and there is nothing he will ever be able to do about his terrible awkwardness.

You want to know the blunt truth? He can't fight any better than our fourth rate round heels and had as much business in the Garden main event as any of these preliminary boys who hang to the ragged edge trying to grind out a living.

Tribe Has Three More Into Fold CLEVELAND, Jan. 10.—(INS)—The Cleveland Indians announced today that four more Tribesmen have put their signatures to 1948 contracts.

They are Dale Mitchell, leading 1947 Indian batsman; Larry Doby, the American league's first Negro player; Allen Gettel, who won 11 and lost 10 last season, and the "unpredictable" Pat Seery.

All excepting Seery received "substantial increases" over their last year's salaries, according to Tribe President Bill Veeck.

STEELERS OPEN SECTION CHASE WITH EASY WIN

Loop's 'Hottest' Quint Has Smooth Sailing Disposing Of 'Wolves'

(Special To The News)

FARRELL, Jan. 10.—Farrell high's "Steelers" will be out for the Section 3 crown this year. They made that fact plainly known here last night as they slaughtered Ellwood City, 51-20 in their loop inaugural—winning with ease.

The Tudor Lewis combine, showing the same fast attack and thorny defense that crushed Duquesne, zoomed to a 24-10 halftime lead and then made the Tubers play their type of ball the rest of the fray. The winners had a 21 point bulge starting the last period.

Pacing the attack were big John Hammond, the colored center, with 13 and Jankovich, guard, with 14. Tuesday the Steelers journey to Ambridge, while Ellwood draws a bye.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

BOB CHAPPUIS, Michigan's All-American halfback, is not yet decided on a pro football career. The professional draft rights to Chappuis belong to the Pittsburgh Steelers in the National league, and the Cleveland Browns in the All-American conference. . . . Arthur Harris, the meter service operator, is displaying a Christmas-New Year's card from Winston Churchill. . . . Henry Jones, sealer of weights and measures, who is a devotee of the art of fisticuffs, has a calendar sent him from Wales. . . . America's best broad jumper, Willie Steele, is considered a sure winner in the forthcoming Olympics. In fact, some experts expect him to out-leap Jesse Owens' world record of 26 feet 8½ inches. . . . Owner George Marshall of the Washington Redskins, has disclaimed any knowledge that his club had signed Harry Gilmer, passing star of the University of Alabama, but hopes that such happens. . . . Babe Ruth holds the record for getting the most bases on balls in a life-time, 2,056. . . . Joey DeJohn of Buffalo, who boxed recently in Youngstown, knocked out Chet Vincel in seven rounds.

America has only one school for jockeys. It is conducted by Harry Trotsek at Churchill Downs. . . . Gene Zenzke, Penn State's top flight miler of a few years ago, operates a golf-driving range near Pottstown, Pa. . . . Answer to J. G. George Perotta is now located in Erie, Pa. . . . Patsy Murphy, former lightweight boxer of this city, is a gardener here. . . . Al Gaultier and Joe Faiello clashed in a bout last night at Pittsburgh's Aragon gardens. . . . Promoting a pro match is precarious, compared to the investment. Of the $1,059 gate, 25 percent went for federal and state taxes, and 12 percent for the promoter, approximately $548. After the fighters were paid off, there was little for the Jefferson A. C. hence the amateur bouts, January 28. In yesteryear, all one had to do was to pay the rent, plus five percent tax, which makes a big difference between boxing profits of yesteryear and those of today.

Paul Cuba, coach at Ursuline high school in Youngstown, is attending the national football coaches convention at New York City. Hank Day of Washington high is also at the convention, having been sent there by their respective schools. . . . Bernie Rowbottom, formerly of this city, is back in Redlands, Calif., having flown from Pittsburgh, Friday evening. Before he departed he was the guest at a party at Billy Engel's Hi-Spot where a number of friends, including Captain Jim Obodowski, Sergeant Patsy Cappatt, Captain Joe Malandra, Carl Klingensmith and Frengel, wished him a safe flight. . . . Wally Bowers intends to fish for pickerel at Bobcaygon in May, he said yesterday. . . . Lawrence County Sportsman's Association will install 1948 officers Tuesday night in the courthouse.

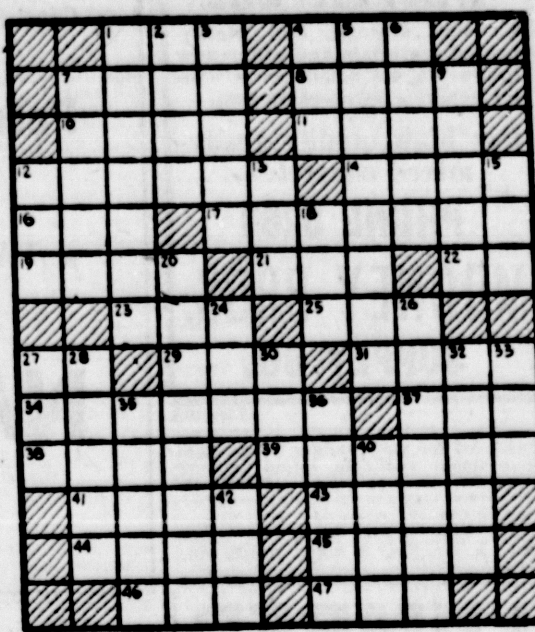

HARLOW QUILTS HARVARD

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 9.—(INS)—Richard C. "Dick" Harlow resigned Friday as head coach of the Harvard University football team, a post he had held since 1935. The resignation was announced by William J. "Bill" Biggum, director of athletics, who said Harlow acted on the advice of his physician, Dr. Walter Kempner of the Duke University hospital, Durham, N. C.

Trucks Have Character, And So Do Trailers

Perhaps we are old fashioned, perhaps we are too meticulous in wanting the best for our customers. But we do want the best and we are proud of the fact that we have the best.

For trucks, can you think of anything better than a Federal? Good looking, soundly constructed, built for the toughest jobs.

As for trailers. American Bantam Super-cargo and Kingham represent the finest in trailer engineering and construction. When you are in the market for trucks or trailers, we have what you need.

PITTSBURGH FIVES
IN TILTS TONIGHT

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 10.—(INS)—Pittsburgh's three college basketball teams all see action tonight on enemy courts.

The Duquesne Dukes travel across the river to oppose Youngstown college on the Penguins floor. Coach Chick Davies five should not have too much trouble garnering their tenth straight win of the campaign.

Riding the crest of a three-game winning streak after dropping the first six, Dr. Cliff Carlson's Pitt Panthers journey to West Point to meet Army. The Cadets have won their only engagement to date and figure to make it two in a row against the Jungle Cats.

Carnegie Tech plays Washington & Jefferson for the second time this season. The Presidents took the first encounter 51-42, and on their home floor tonight should win by even more.

At Belmont in July, 1923, jockey Frank Hayes died of a heart attack during the race, but crossed the wire still in the saddle. The win was counted.

Court House Registration Days To Be Set

Commissioners Authorized
Special Days Over County For General Election

OTHER EVENTS IN COURT HOUSE

Special registration days for about 21 districts of Lawrence county will be named by county commissioners. The days will not be named until after the primary election as the specials are for the general election.

There are many citizens in the county, perhaps 5000 who are not registered. While they can register on any business day in the Bureau of Registration, it is sometimes difficult for persons in the outlying districts to get to New Castle save by laying off a day's work.

In order to give such people an opportunity to register the commissioners will have the chief clerk of the registration bureau, A. Lewis Conn, prepare a schedule of days.

DIVORCE COURT

Divorce court was held in court room number one Friday by Judge John G. Lamoree. Fourteen cases were listed for hearing, with none contested.

WHERE'S DAN CUPID?

semblymen 100 signatures, state committee on either ticket, 100, delegate to the Republican national convention, 200, and the same to the Democratic convention. Alternates need the same number.

Seeking To Delay Gallows Death Of Mass Murderer

Believe Jake Bird Can Reveal
More Details Of Unsolved Slayings Throughout Country

WALLA WAA, Wash., Jan. 10. (INS)—Belief that ax murderer Jake Bird could dispel the mystery of the Chicago Galvin murder case prompted a public defender today to draft a last minute appeal to the Washington state supreme court.

Bird's attorney, Charles Luce, appointed by Warden Tom Smith, said the appeal was made in an effort to give officials more time to question Bird.

Bird is sentenced to hang January 16, for the murder of a Tacoma, Wash., mother and daughter. He has admitted 13 nation-wide murders and hinted he may know more about 10 other killings.

Chicago police officials, after questioning Bird today, were certain he knew more about additional slayings in the Chicago area.

BEST SMALL FRUIT VARIETIES LISTED

Home gardeners are cautioned against placing orders for fruit nursery stock solely on the basis of attractive catalog illustrations because a number of factors generally must be taken into consideration for full and permanent satisfaction on the part of the grower.

Among these factors is the adaptability of varieties to local soil and weather conditions. The amount of space available also should govern selections. Suitable, adapted varieties can produce considerable fruit for home use. Fruits found most satisfactory for home gardens include strawberries, red or black raspberries, blackberries, currants, gooseberries and grapes.

Strawberries—Premier or Catskill.

Red raspberries—Taylor or Latham, or Indian Summer if an everbearing variety is desired.

Black raspberries—Morrison or Cumberland.

Currants—Wilder and Red Lake.

Gooseberries—Pocahontas and Downing.

Blackberries—Eldorado.

Grapes—Early, Portland (white) and Fredonia (blue); late, Niagara (white) and Concord (blue).

Only the small fruits are suited to average home garden requirements. Tree fruits usually require more time and equipment for disease and insect control than most gardeners have available.

Penn Aero Service Will Train Reserve Ground Air Forces

Army Ground Forces Organized
Reserve Corps Individual Pilot
Training Program To Open

Authorization has been granted the Penn Aero Service at the New Castle Airport by John B. Williams, lieutenant colonel of the AGF, to train pilots under the Army Ground Forces Organized Reserve Corps Individual Pilot Training program, furnishing both aircraft and flight service.

The primary mission of the program is to maintain the pilot proficiency of each Organized Reserve Corps Army Ground Forces rated liaison pilot on inactive duty status in Second Army Area, filling a table of organization position as pilot in an Organized Reserve Corps unit.

Continuation of flying training for the maintenance of pilot proficiency for Organized Reserve Corps Army Ground Forces pilots on inactive duty status will be provided by permitting these pilots to fly light aircraft similar to Army Ground Forces liaison type aircraft, available at nearby civilian flying activities up to four hours a month.

All flights in the program will be governed by applicable Civil Air Regulations and will be limited to the local flying areas of the approved schools or activities.

More than 650,000 copies of the "American Practical Navigator," only official United States reference on navigation, have been sold since its first edition in 1802.

About 750 copies of the book, published by the navy hydrographic office since 1866, are currently issued each month.

The book collection idea was laid before the President by a group of North Carolinians, including Governor R. Gregg Cherry, Democratic Sens. Clyde Hoey and William B. Umstead, and Publisher Park.

Park discovered the need for English-language books in German schools when he visited Germany and made a study of German school conditions and youth matters.

Books Already Sent

He learned that the Hitler government had destroyed millions of volumes in schools and libraries and replaced them with books on Nazi ideology.

The publisher suggested that North Carolina school children, aided by their teachers and Rotarian clubs, begin a book collection to send to the German school children.

Four thousand books and magazines were assembled the first week. One thousand volumes were sent on October 14 from the Raleigh-Durham airport to Berlin by members of the Raleigh Women's club.

The North Carolina group, in outlining the plan to the President, suggested the transportation of the books be authorized by the government.

Truman Approves

Parks said Mr. Truman endorsed the collection idea fully but pointed out that the urgent necessity of sending food and fuel to Germany and other parts of Europe is making the transportation situation acute. The publisher told newsmen:

"The President was very sympathetic and believes the book idea should be developed fully. He said that it is a capital idea and he wants to see all available books go to the school children of Germany and Austria when they can be sent."

Labor Statistics Bureau Presents Report On Prices

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—(INS)—The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today that higher prices for all groups of items pushed its consumers' price index to a new all-time high in mid-November—67.2 per cent above the August, 1939 level.

Further increase at the retail level may be shown in the December and January figures in view of the BLS statement that its wholesale index continued upward last week for the ninth consecutive week.

The latest figures on prices were reported after Secretary of Labor Harold Ickes declared that spiraling living costs have erased "all the gains of the 1946-47 wage increases and a great part of the wage earners' gains since Pearl Harbor."

At the same time, the Agricultural department said that "the demand for farm products continues at unprecedented levels" and that "prices received by farmers are at record highs and are likely to stay high during the next few months."

What is reputed to be the thickest bituminous coal vein in the United States is in Wyoming. It is 90 or more feet thick.

A Chinese coffin made of planks four inches thick may weigh as much as 600 pounds.
